GEORGE O. BARNES.

God is Love and Nothing Else.

PRAISE THE LORD.

PARIS, KY., NOV. 15, 1888.

DEAR INTERIOR—After writing two years for an invitation from "Old Bourbon," and not getting it, I cut the knot and asked myself to come. Or as good as that. I was not willing, after all that had happened six years ago, to leave this people in ignorance of what chance had "come over the spirit of my dream," and I determined that they should know all, and come to an intelligent decision on the subject, whatever that decision might be. In short, I made up my mind to "have it out" with them.

It is just as I expected. The hearts of the dear people are sound to the core. The way in which they have rallied—almost en masse—to our meetings; the densely packed audience-room of their spacious court-house; the fixed, respectful, almost breathless attention they have given to the preaching and singing of the Gospel, all tell out, in no uncertain way, which road their sympathies run. But, I do not forget that, for years, one report after another, each false than the last, has been circulated, till the dear folk were so poisoned, by degrees, that they hardly dared send for me to know the worst.

And now, that they have the same old gospel as of six years ago, they breathe a sigh of relief, and testify in every possible way their joy at having us back. Of course a mountain of detraction has to be removed. The devil is not such a bungler as to have all his work undone in a trice, and the fight is not yet over. But the victory is assured, in time, if we don't commit some blunder that will undo present advantages.

I find the memory of the former meeting—when over 600 souls confessed the dear Name of Jesus—is fresh and abiding; and as I get up in the familiar stand and look out over the crowd of well-known faces, it really don't seem six weeks since we were doing the former work.

Paris has a superb court-house. The main audience-room is like a well-constructed opera hall. It has been lately frescoed and the effects are very fine. It is lighted with gas and heated with four open grates, for moderate cost, and large stoves in reserve for severe weather. A capital arrangement, leaving the calorific questions under beautiful control; and avoiding that alternate roasting and freezing, we are all so familiar with, in public buildings, and so conducive to pneumonia, colds, sore throats et id omne genus.

It seems very natural to be at the Bourbon House, where we "put up" before. Mamma and I are at the hotel. The girls are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bashford.

Craddock is as good and kind as can be. I think he regards this, as, in some sense, his meeting; seeing he took the trouble of drumming for us, at a critical period, when the devil might have kept us away by a very little turn of the wheel. We know the colonel and his worth, better than ever before. When you get down to his "true inwardness," he's a first-rate old fellow. As a collector of news, I never saw his match. When one sees the amazing number and variety of items in a single issue of the Kentucky-Citizen, and then reflects on the continuous labor involved in dishing up a similar feast of fresh tidings for hungry readers, in such tireless succession, one no longer wonders that our worthy editor is "worn to a fraz." He is thin; but wiry and vigorous, and will live and die a walking interrogation point.

We will esteem it amply worth the visit if we can only help this indefatigable caterer to the endless wants of a news-devouring public to a little, or much, more of the same kind of religion we were instrumental in bringing into his hard-worked life six years ago. It was the good news of a God and Savior, who only asked him to believe "as best he could," that captured him then. And I trust the further discovery that the dear Lord treats us on the same generous principles, "all along the line," will win his cheerful service in the future. You might as well try to drive the entire mule crop of '88 without reins as to coerce our worthy editor. But he will lead well, I am sure, if you get the right thing in front of him. He disdains a "curb." I think he will go well with a "snaffle."

And here I cannot refrain from recording my sorrow that the Good Lord's method of dealing with saint and sinner is so misunderstood. He is ever taken by the hand, instead of a loving Father. Men who come to Him for the first time, draw near, looking for a stroke of the lash; a remand to the "hired servants'" quarters; a repellent look of virtuous indignation, just because they are sinners. They do not believe "This Man receiveth sinners and eateth with them." They do not understand that any ungraciousness in bestowing a "free gift," would only dishonor the giver. This they are "willingly ignorant of," that "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners"—not to worry them, or bully them, or burden them. And so they insist on turning the "paths of pleasantness and peace" into "thorny highways," where tender feet are torn, and heavy hearts made heavier, by reason of the grievousness of the road. I would my fellow men might see that a loving God would be disgraced, if all these hard methods of salvation, devised by men, were of His ordering. Thank God, they are none of His. There is no "cold sweat" in His "Gospel." If we persist in putting it there, it only grieves Him. How would you like it, dear reader, if, when you wanted to make one you love happy, in the reception of a costly gift—that it gave you the greatest delight to bestow—it should be taken in such a doleful way, with so many reservations and protestations; so many sighings and groanings; and such manifestations of misery in general, as to convert the merry-making into a funeral, and the occasion of the donor's happiness and gratification into one of deep dishonor and displeasure?

I think the greatest wonder of the heavenly state, as we look back upon earth, will be the hideous reluctance we displayed in our acceptance of God's salvation; and the self-made obstacles we piled between ourselves and our Savior.

I think I said in one of my recent letters, that a bad God is worse than none. On further reflection, I doubt the correctness of that. "No God," does such violence to the "Spirit" in man; is such a stunning blow at the best that is in us, that nothing can compensate for the injury wrought.

Whereas, even with a false, bad God, the worshipping Spirit will find some outlet, through which to lay hold, tho' dimly and indistinctly of the God it wants. This "feeling after God, if haply we may find Him," as Scripture expresses it, though only a false God is known, is far better than that paralysis of Spirit, that syncope of Soul, that follows the barring out all hope, set forth in that most awful sentence—"There is no God."

The bad God is in the head, chiefly, viz: OUR THOUGHTS of God. And that head worship will make us bad, undoubtedly. "They that worship them are alike unto them," is a scriptural statement that all know to be true, abstractly, and in experience. "The stream rises not higher than its source," is man's way of stating the same thing. Therefore the Psalmist says—"I hate thoughts," not "vain" thoughts. "Vain" is an italic interpolation, not in the text.

But a bad head may co-exist with a good heart. There is great comfort in that. The heart, in Scripture, is EVER the will; and the will is still a monarch on his throne, though fallen. And my will is mine, to give as I choose. Thank God for that. I choose to give it to God. Then the conflict ceases, and His "will is done on earth, as in Heaven." How many have theoretic thoughts of God, that never get from the head to the heart! Yet from head to heart is a highway and there is always danger that a bad dogma may reach the vital spot, where the mischief becomes irreparable. Let us guard that entrance with a sleepless vigilance. Better to have the head right, also. That is so. Yet is a bad God better than no God at all, we may still truthfully affirm.

But why have a bad one, when the "God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ" is ever presenting Himself for our acceptance?

EVER IN JESUS. GEO. O. BARNES.

Lyle was made permanent chairman of the executive committee and T. L. Martin secretary. CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. Ben Helm will preach the Thanksgiving sermon in the Christian church.

—The evening services at the Christian church will commence until further notice at 6 1/2 o'clock instead of 7.

—A colored Catholic Congress will meet at Washington January 1. There are believed to be 200,000 colored Catholics in the United States.

—Carlisle has passed an ordinance that ought to be adopted and enforced everywhere. It makes the chewing and spitting of tobacco upon the floor or carpet of a church an offense punishable on conviction by a fine of not less than $3 nor more than $10.

—The Cincinnati Exposition lost just $350,000 for its stockholders.

—Henry W. King, of Chicago, was shot and killed at the Hotel Paxton in Omaha by a woman who claimed to be his wife. King had only recently remarried.

—The Hopkins & Robinson manufactory and W. H. Edinger's wholesale flour house, Louisville, suffered fire losses Friday, the former to the amount of $20,000 and the latter of $40,000; nearly covered by insurance.

—A. S. Gentry, the local editor of the Pembroke Criterion, a paper published in Christian county, has brought suit against the city of Hopkinsville for permitting a crowd of boys and men to run him out of town, firing toy pistols at him, when he came to work against the railroad tax at the polls.

—The mail service cost the country $58,126,004 during the last fiscal year or $5,430,828 more than it paid. The number of letters mailed was 1,769,800,000; postal cards mailed 372,200,000; newspapers and periodicals mailed 1,063,100,000; pieces of third and fourth-class matter, 372,900,000; total 3,578,000,000.

—During the year 6,211,876 pieces of mail matter were received at the Dead Letter Office. Of the number 749,513 were restored to the owners without opening. Of the number of pieces opened there were recorded 20,512 containing money amounting to $235,450; 3,628 contained postal notes amounting to $5,798; 23,338 contained negotiable paper, etc., amounting to $1,343,019 face value.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—W. A. Arnold sold his residence on Danville Avenue to Mrs. Sallie Harris, possession given to-day. Mr. Arnold and family will move to his farm in the country.

—W. L. Crutcher, trustee of J. C. Hagan, made a sale of his effects the 14th inst. The sale was satisfactory to all concerned. The farm containing 337 acres, brought $60 per acre.

—A Paris paper says Rev. Frank Cheek refused to make an announcement to his congregation of the postponement of the Barnes meeting, giving as his reasons for not doing so that Barnes is an independent. From this we suppose that Rev. Cheek is not an independent and has set out to teach only what the bosses told him he must teach when he pursued his studies at the theological institute. Bro. Cheek would never have heard of the Cross if Jesus Christ had not been an independent.

—Severe censure has been heaped upon "Squire Weiser for the unyielding position he took in the Dilger case. Without question, the 'Squire deserves condemnation for his seemingly dogged determination to never consider the question of right and justice as between Dilger and the citizens at large. But is it not a little strange that every one has a kick for the old gentleman of great legal attainments, when his construction of the law is in keeping with many of the past technical decisions of our highest court, by which murderers as heinous as Dilger have been turned loose upon the community? So 'Squire Weiser is a good lawyer after the fashion. He demanded one instruction of the Judge, which was refused, but after deliberation the court gave it and the 'Squire scored another point. The only trouble with the 'Squire is that he is a good lawyer and a capital Judge, but a very poor juror "for the people."

HIGHLAND.—Dr. Mullins and wife have gone to northern Kentucky, where I suppose they will make their home. Miss Morgan and Mr. Hughes debated "Women's Suffrage" at the Eastin school-house last Saturday night. Mr. Frank Baker, of Worcester, O., who has been visiting his brother Charles at this place for sometime, has returned to Portsmouth, O., where he anticipates spending the winter and returning in the spring. Miss Edith Morgan's school will terminate at this place the 23d. The class completing the common school course will deliver essays on the afternoon of the same day and it will also give a reunion on the night of the commencement. We anticipate a grand time. Mrs. L. Spiers, from Kansas, arrived at this place last Sunday. She found many eager friends awaiting her arrival. Mr. Charles Baker has at last concluded that Highland is a poor place to go to to get thrashed—"just because!" Miss Morgan will organize a normal school at this place this winter.

—The Court of Appeals has affirmed the decision sentencing David Roberts, who murdered James Kendall in Morgan county in 1884, to 21 years in the penitentiary. After the murder Roberts escaped to Missouri, but was caught and brought back by a son of the murdered man recently. He is 64 and his sentence is equal to life imprisonment.

W. P. WALTON.

A FEW days ago the Courier-Journal published an interview with one Judge Rucker, of Omaha, who stated that the president had told him before the election that he would be knifed by Hill, Hewitt and Grant in New York, which would lose him that State. He further claimed that Senator Blackburn was present and heard the conversation. This the Senator took occasion immediately to deny, though admitting that he had introduced Rucker to Mr. Cleveland. Rucker came back again, reiterating his former statement and using some very uncomplimentary remarks concerning the Senator, who in a final interview charges that Rucker is a paid spy, who failing to get the information he sought, has manufactured his statement out of whole cloth. He characterizes him as beyond the pale of gentlemanly consideration and says he will take no further notice of the fellow, save to kick him as he would a dog that crosses his path. The statement is given out that Rucker is dead game, and we all know Joe Blackburn is not afraid of his weight in wild cats, so blind, lago, blind will likely flow in deep red, gory torrents.

THE Dilger jury hung itself instead of prescribing the death penalty for Dilger, the fiend who murdered two Louisville policemen. Eleven were for a verdict of death, but the 12th held out for acquittal, or at most a manslaughter verdict with a two years' sentence. This was a pretty close call for the murderer, but one man is sufficient and the defense found that man in the person of Squire Weiser, who now claims, although he swore he was not against capital punishment, that he was really opposed to it. An indictment for perjury ought to be brought against him. Dilger will be tried again Dec. 17.

THE president has appointed Perry Belmont Minister to Spain and he has accepted. He will resign his seat in Congress and Gov. McCreary will become chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in his stead. Belmont has been absent a greater portion of his time and the governor has virtually been chairman of that important committee for a year or more and has made a record of which his constituents and the country at large are proud.

WE have received, with the compliments of Collector T. S. Bronston, Commissioner Miller's report of the collection of Internal Revenue. It shows an aggregate of $124,326,474.72 for the year, of which Kentucky contributed $14,182,687.12, more than any other State, except Illinois and New York. Col. Bronston's collections in this district reached within a fraction of a million of dollars. The per centage of cost of collection was 3.2 per cent. of the amount collected.

AFTER conducting the Louisville Democrats for two decades and trying in vain to sell it for the last year, Editor W. H. Munnell announces in its issue of Saturday that he has sacrificed it to the Lord by voluntarily suspending its publication. Mr. Munnell has for several years been doing effective evangelistic work and will hereafter devote his entire time to the saving of souls.

SPEAKING of contests, which now seems the order of the day with defeated republican candidates for Congress, what's the matter with Day contesting Wilson's seat in the 10th? From all we can learn, a sufficient number of miners and railroad hands, not entitled to vote, cast their ballots for Wilson to make the small majority, on which he claims his election.

As a newspaper the Cincinnati daily Enquirer has but few equals and its weekly has no superiors in the excellence and variety of its contents. We will send it to you with this paper for $3 a year or you can write direct to the publisher, John R. McLean, Cincinnati, as indicated in the prospectus, published in this issue.

FRANK LAWLER, of Chicago, who is an especial friend of Gov. McCreary, seems to possess some of the governor's winning ways himself. Two years ago he was elected to Congress by the slim majority of 16. This time he goes in by over 5,000, a pretty good-sized victory in the erstwhile republican city by the lake.

THE newspapers are giving themselves great concern over the future career of Grover Cleveland, as if he was not large enough and wise enough to take care of himself. The latest settlement of his case gives him the presidency of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which of course is the merest bosh.

THE Railroad Commission has completed its assessment and their report shows that there are in Kentucky 2,371 miles of road, upon which it put a valuation of $39,863,285, an increase of over four millions over last year in assessment and an increase of 400 in mileage.

FOR the first time in 31 years a democrat is elected to a State office in Iowa. Day, democrat, in a vote of 400,000 beat his republican competitor for railroad commissioner a little over 500.

WE are willing always to give even the devil his due, but at the same time we are opposed to giving him more than he is entitled to. A number of newspapers are printing fulsome compliments on Chairman Alford's management of the late campaign in Kentucky, which do not seem to be backed up by the facts. So far as we are able find out, the 8th district was entirely ignored and the same complaint comes from the 3d. The State Central Committee may have elected Breckinridge, Carlisle and Ellis, but to Gov. McCreary and his local friends alone is due his magnificent triumph of Nov. 6.

OUR level-headed democratic neighbor, the INTERIOR JOURNAL, makes the point that there can be no crying necessity for democrats to be signing petitions to have democrats ejected from offices to give the places to republicans before the expiration of their terms.—[Danville Advocate. Thanks. We are glad to know that our suggestion had the desired effect here and elsewhere. We opposed any effort to turn out the republican postmaster here until his time was up and we now insist that it is only fair play to let Capt. Richards serve his term, which does not expire till February, 1890.

THE republicans are claiming with a show of right that they will have the next House by a majority of from 1 to 5. Should they succeed in organizing the body this slim majority will be increased as much as necessary by deciding contests in their own favor, as they never scruple in doing, no matter what the evidence. So unscrupulous are they in the matter that if they needed him as a counter they would unseat McCreary with his 2,000 or 3,000 majority and give his place to the Little Red Hog on the flimsiest excuse.

WE assert with confidence that notwithstanding the great hurrah about it, Gen. Harrison hasn't been elected President. The electors who were chosen will in all probability vote for him, but until they do he will not be elected. They could if they wished elect somebody else, but we betray no confidence when we say that we have a straight tip that they will not do so.

THE Hopkinsville Daily New Era is out and is a decided improvement in every way over the tri-weekly. Those who feared Hunter Wood have nothing to do after walking the plank from the collector's office will acknowledge their mistake when they realize the work and worry necessary to getting out a seven-column paper every day in the year.

WHILE Cleveland's plurality in Missouri is 25,632, David R. Francis' for governor is only 13,231. It is claimed that the reason for the difference lies in the fact that Francis was scratched by the saloon men in St. Louis and elsewhere, because as mayor he had incurred their displeasure by a rigid enforcement of the law against them.

THE chairman of the Democratic State Committee of West Virginia telegraphs that Fleming is elected governor by a small but sure majority and that the rest of the democratic ticket has larger majorities. The democrats will also have the legislature by two majority on joint ballot.

INSTEAD of seconding our nomination for governor in the person of Judge M. J. Durham, the Owensboro Messenger rises to place the Hon. Jim McKenzie in nomination.

CLEVELAND's majority in Kentucky is 28,000, or about 6,000 less than in 1884. The weather is to blame for the falling off.

and carries a single turret twenty-two feet in diameter. In this turret are mounted two forty-five ton breech loading guns. She has also four six inch guns, on sponsons, twelve quick firing and several machine guns. The armor plating is twelve inches on the sides and fourteen inches on the turret. Minister Alfred De Clapared.

The new representative of the Swiss government at Washington, Capt. Alfred de Clapared, is a diplomat of long standing, having been engaged in the service in Berlin and Vienna for twenty years. He is by descent a Huguenot, and in appearance he is a distinguished looking man of about 45 years, and is eminently well fitted to represent his government. He is highly esteemed by his countrymen, and is noted for his philanthropy, which is wide reaching and effective. Besides having been engaged in MINISTER DE CLAPARED, a great number of Swiss charities he is president of the Aid Union of Swiss societies in Europe. When in Berlin he was honored by the degree of doctor of laws. He is also captain in the Swiss army. Capt. Clapared is a married man and the father of five children. His family, however, will not live in Washington, and his wife will not have an opportunity of entering Washington society during the coming season.

Making a Quick Trip.

The following conversation took place in Detroit one day: "I would rather live in Paris than any other city in the world." "Why don't you go to Paris, then?" "No money. If I had $2,000 I would be in Paris to-morrow." How was that for rapid transit!—Detroit Free Press.

He Has Recently Celebrated the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of His Reign.

King George of Greece has announced his intention to abdicate as soon as his son reaches the age of twenty-one, and the Greeks appear so willing to let him go that they are making the closing months of his reign unusually splendid. There are good reasons for all this. King George himself is a Dane, but his wife, Queen Olga, is a Russian and a niece of the czar and very much beloved, not only because there is an affinity between Greek and Russian, which is lacking as to the Dane, but because she is a woman of rare ability, piety and charity. Add that her son, the Prince of Sparta, is a born Greek, and it is plain why the Hellenes should wish him to succeed his Danish father as soon as possible. And as they do not feel free to hurry up the old man's death, they are quite willing to see him abdicate. A few days ago the people and court celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of King George's accession. All classes joined heartily, and the wealthy Greeks of the neighboring countries contributed liberally. In the morning the king and crown prince rode in state to the cathedral where the Te Deum (that is, the hymn in the Greek church which corresponds to the Catholic Te Deum) was performed in the presence of the royal family and many guests. At the palace the king spoke from the balcony to an immense crowd in the street, thanking the people for their loyalty. The day closed with a grand reception in the throne room of the palace of all the foreign representatives and distinguished guests. Among the rest Mr. Fearn, United States minister, presented a congratulatory telegram from President Cleveland.

The Palace of Athens, the royal residence, is among the most striking buildings in the renewed and half modernized capital. It is a magnificent three story dwelling of white stone, near Mount Lycabettus, and its architecture and general style are those of a pleasing compromise between the modern and the classical or antique. One of the interesting facts about the Greece of today is that while the kingdom itself contains less than three million people, of whom nearly half are non-Hellenic, the neighboring countries contain about six million pure Greeks, and they all look to Greece as the land of their patriotic pride. Thus Greeks (or, more properly, Hellenes) who have lived in Smyrna, Alexandria, Constantinople and other parts for several generations, still look on Hellas as the "home of the soul," the fatherland. So it was, their oldest historians tell us, 2,500 years ago, when the Greeks of Gaul and Libya, Egypt and Asia Minor, and the ports of the Black sea, spoke of themselves collectively as "spontaneous Hellenes," and were proud of their privilege to contend in the Olympic games. Among these Greeks of neighboring countries are very many wealthy merchants, who contribute liberally to the institutions of Greece, and the result is that Athens is now more fully furnished with schools and libraries than any other eastern city of its size.

Shakespeare's Statue in Paris.

If the European traveler and lover of Shakespeare, when he stays over in Paris for the conventional sight seeing, will take a walk down the Boulevard Haussmann to where it is intersected by the Avenue de Messine, his eyes will now be greeted by a statue of the immortal bard. This statue of Shakespeare's, which has been but recently erected, was presented to the city of Paris by Mr. William Knighton, and is the work of Paul Fournier. As is shown by the cut of the statue given herewith Mr. Fournier has represented the poet as he is commonly known to us. It is conventional. Shakespeare holds in his right hand an open book, and stands upright, with the mantle draped over his left arm. On the front of the statue are the words "William Shakespeare, 1564-1616." These are ornamented by four shields, and a garland bearing the names of Shakespeare's chief plays. At the unveiling of the statue speeches were made by Mr. Knighton, Lord Lytton, M. Jules Claretie and M. Meunier in the name of the Academie. M. Meunier-Sully, the actor, recited passages from the poet's works.

Talmage's Pathway of Life.

The largest contract ever made by any book publishing house in the world has just been closed by the Historical Publishing Company, of this city, with B. P. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., by which the latter purchases 250,000 copies of the "Pathway of Life," and with the purchase obtaining the exclusive right to sell the work by subscription in the United States. "The Pathway of Life" is from the pen of the work's most eloquent preacher, T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., all of whose works that are published in the next several years will be brought out by them, a contract having been signed a few days ago to that effect. The book is now in press, to be ready about Nov. 1. The magnitude of this purchase will be better understood when it is known that the book retails at from $5.50 to $5 per copy, according to the style of binding, so that the transaction represents nearly $1,250,000—Philadelphia Telephone.

A unique milk cure is established in Normandy. The cows, being made to drink ruginous water, give milked milk which nourishes and strengthens the system at the same time. Milk in France has become the panacea of all diseases, perpetuating youth and regenerating the old.

ANTS show wonderful intelligence, and the "driver ants" not only build boats, but launch them, too; only these boats are formed of their own bodies. They are called "drivers" because of their ferocity. Nothing can stand before the attacks of these little creatures. Large swarms have been killed in a single night, while chickens, hawks and other small animals in Western Africa flee from them in terror.

English journals assert that as a result of the proposed new copyright law that English printers and publishers will come to this country. It is stated as a fact that Scottish printing firms have decided to transfer their business to the United States.

Art's St. Louis Public Library in one month this year, "Ben Hur" was called for 81 times; "The Scarlet Letter," 42 times; "Anna Karenina," 40 times; "Los Miserables," 37; "Ivanhoe," 33; "Vanity Fair," 31; "April Hopes," 28; while 27, 25 and 25 represent the respective calls for "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "David Copperfield" and "The Count of Monte Cristo."

The "tract form" of booklet has invaded Paris. Thousands of copies of a little brochure entitled: "Essay on the Incompatibility of Theater-going with a Profession of Christianity," have poured through the post-office. It bears the name of Josiah W. Leeds, of Philadelphia, as author, who, it is stated, has kindly consented to the translation of his work into French. Mr. Leeds is a Philadelphia Comstock.

English writers of a certain class, either the intentionally rude or the supremely stupid, always make Americans say "wall" for well, and "I reckon." There are parts of this great country where the people do say: "I reckon," but the people who say "wall" for well must be limited to the class who leave "the States" early in life and make England their home, for they are not known on this side of the ocean.

A BIOGRAPHY of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany will be published in London shortly. It will relate solely to his domestic life. It is believed that his widow is the author of the work, as her name is appended to the preface. The preface is signed by the poet, who will be devoted to a hospital for the treatment of diseases of the throat. The Fall Mail Gazette says the work is being revised by Lord Salisbury.

WOMEN have had much more to do with journalism in this country than is generally believed. The first newspaper ever printed in Rhode Island and the first in Maryland were founded and carried on by women. The Virginia Gazette, which was the first paper to publish the Declaration of Independence, was published by Clementina Reid. The third newspaper in America was carried on by a woman, Mrs. Cornelia Bradford.

HERNANDOS grapes are receiving much attention in the Old World, but it is extremely doubtful whether there is anything of real merit in them from a horticultural point of view. They are tubercles, and we have one representative in our own country growing in the Texas and the Indian Territory, known as Vitis vinifera.

The swiftest bird on the wing is the frigate bird, a sort of nautical bird of prey. Sailors believe that it can start with the peep of dawn from the coast of Africa, and, following the trade wind, land on the American coast before sunset. It can undoubtedly fly more than two hundred miles an hour, but we do not know of any trustworthy record of the speed of which it is capable.

CURIOS woodpeckers are those in California. They will dig out hundreds of holes in the bark of a pine tree, as round and smooth as if bored by an augur, and in every hole they will hammer an acorn, big and out, and hammer it so tightly you can scarcely pull it out. Why they do this no one knows. The woodpecker has not given his reasons and man can not find out.
